Oya: Borders of History

Thurs, 1/9 to Sun, 2/9, 8:00 AM- 11:45 PM, free

Norris University Center, 1999 Campus Drive, Evanston

Referencing the tradition of oya (narrow lace trimmings used as edging on headdresses of women and household textiles in the Middle East), the exhibition explores transcultural communication and translation—translation of culture, identity, tradition, and gendered labor. Both oya and ornamentation hold symbolic meaning that is used as secret communication by their creators—mainly women. Similar to the construction of identity, through an additive process of embedding symbols and densely layered imagery, Oya: Borders of History showcases painted and embroidered colorful family portraits. The obscured portraits play with the malleability of identity and cultural representation while combining disparate domestic and fine arts materials, aesthetic traditions, and women's work.

Mistaken identities, disguises, and romantic escapades abound in Johann Strauss's high-spirited operetta. Everyone is going to Prince Orlofsky's ball, but they don't want their nearest and dearest to know.

Gabriel von Eisenstein evades jail for a night to attend; his wife follows him, disguised as a countess, to find out whether he will misbehave. Adele, their maid, claims to be visiting her aunt, but she, too, goes to the ball, disguised as an actress. Frivolity, festivities, and a practical joke gone awry make for a sparkling musical cocktail!

But Roscoe is really his sister Rachel posing as her own dead brother, who's been killed by her boyfriend Stanley Stubbers. Holed up at The Cricketers' Arms, the permanently ravenous Francis spots the chance of an extra meal ticket and takes a second job with one Stanley Stubbers, who is hiding from the police and waiting to be re-united with Rachel. Dittmar Gallery, Norris University Center,

1999 Campus Dr., Evanston

Contact: Karen Reyes, 847.491.2348,

10 years ago, i painted a burning letter “a” on one side of a salvaged window whose glass looked-into another world.

On the other side, the letter appeared in the sky above a deep valley where its unique light fired the rods and cones in the eyes of a typeface designer named 53947. The sublime vision “opened his mind to the possibility of everything” and granted him newfound omniscience. 10 years later, he attempts to capture the essence of this enlightenment in a new design, inspiring a journey that will encourage him to re-evaluate his perception of what is known.” - lewis lain

Pop América, 1965–1975 challenges and reframes familiar notions of Pop Art by bringing together artists from North, Central, and South America, as well as the United States and the Caribbean. Pop América is the first exhibition to unify Latin American expressions of Pop and explore how its bold and colorful imagery, references to mass culture, and representations of everyday objects, signs, and symbols were embraced by artists working across the hemisphere. The exhibition makes a timely and critical contribution to a deeper understanding of this period and the impulses behind Pop Art from the mid-1960s through the mid-1970s. Pop América features nearly 100 artworks by artists working in Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Mexico, Peru, Puerto Rico, Venezuela, and the United States, sparking an expansion and reconsideration of Pop as a U.S. and British phenomenon. The exhibition reshapes debates over Pop's perceived political neutrality and aesthetic innovations. The artists in the exhibition create vital dialogues that cross national borders and include Antonio Dias, Rubens Gerchman, Roy Lichtenstein, Marisol, Cildo Meriles, Marta Minujín, Hugo Rivera-Scott, and Andy Warhol, among others.

On the Same Terms: 150 Years of Women at Northwestern

Now to Mon, 7/20, All Day, free

Deering Library, 1937 Sheridan Road, Evanston

Contact: Cory Slowik, 847-491-7641, c-slowik@northwestern.edu

This exhibition examines the twisting and tenuous road Northwestern traveled on its way to educating college-age women in an era when the concept was still controversial, the implementation virtually untested, and the long-term results unpredictable. Using documents, maps, photographs, and artifacts from the University Archives, the exhibit begins by tracing the unique elements in Evanston's and Northwestern's history that led, fourteen years from the University's founding, to the admission of women. The focus then shifts to the dilemmas faced by University administration about exactly how to incorporate women into the college—with particular worries about housing and supervising them; the unexpected events that changed the course of coeducation at Northwestern; and the ways that women students themselves interpreted their roles as Northwestern “co-eds.”

Film Screening

When the Earth Trembled, or The Strength of Love (1913)

Fri, 12/6, 7:00 – 9:00 PM, free

Block Museum of Art, Mary and Leigh, 40 Arts Circle Drive, Evanston

Contact: Block Museum of Art, 847-491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu

The first long film by the Lubin Manufacturing Company, an early cinema rival to Thomas Edison, When the Earth Trembled is both a family melodrama—about a father who interferes in his son's marriage—and an early spectacle, with the 1906 San Francisco earthquake as a central focus. The film incorporates some of Lubin's own newsreel footage of the quake's aftermath, and features specially-built break-away sets. Many of Lubin's films were destroyed in a vault fire a few years later; Trembled will be accompanied by a selection of related films that survive purely by chance or only as fragments. Restored print courtesy of the San Francisco Silent Film Festival.

DISC looking for Community Partners

Develop and Innovate for Social Change (DISC) is a student organization at Northwestern that aims to employ technology as a means of making tangible progress for social good in our community.

This past year, we partnered with the Evanston Development Cooperative and the Chicago Furniture Bank working on projects to enhance the platforms and technologies of these social impact-oriented organizations. If you feel that your organization could be interested in working with DISC, our project advisor, Hayden Udelson, would be happy to set up a time to get in contact over the phone or meet in person. Northwestern Music Academy
Learn more online

For more than 70 years, Northwestern University's Music Academy in Evanston has provided music instruction to children and adult students from surrounding communities and the greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana area.

Most Academy instructors also teach in the Henry and Leigh Bienen School of Music and hold masters and doctoral degrees in music teaching and performance. The Academy often serves as a teaching laboratory for college students enrolled in pedagogy courses and is a member of the National Guild of Community Schools of the Arts.

Classes start Saturday, Sept. 7 and Monday, Sept. 9, times vary $300-355 (15 week class and home materials)

This 45-minute class is a lovely way for babies and parents to interact. Multi-level activities that are appropriate for each stage of a baby's development give lap babies, crawlers, and walkers a chance to explore music, touch, sound, and movement. Home materials including a CD, a book related to the theme of the unit, and an instrument provide additional ideas for sharing the class experience at home.

Music Academy Chorus

Dates are TBD, 7:00-9:30 PM, $100

The Chorus will rehearse Schubert's "Mass in G" in fall, Poulenc's "Gloria" in winter, and Mozart's "Requiem" in spring. Performances at the end of every quarter

Other Courses

(offered throughout the school year)

Piano and Organ

The Music Academy Piano Division offers pre-piano class, which serves as an introduction to more formal piano instruction: keyboard instruction in two tracks for students ages 6 to 18, and instruction for adults. Pre-piano serves as an introduction to more formal piano instruction. Keyboard instruction for children begins with pre-staff music and expands to landmark-based intervallic reading. After the first year of study, most children participate in the Illinois State Music Teacher's Association curriculum assessment, where they demonstrate skills and receive certificates and pins for participation.

Strings

The String Division offers private lessons in violin, viola, and cello, with goals of both providing musical instruction and instilling a love of music and of learning music. The division believes that all children can learn to their potential when placed in an environment that includes clear instruction, an involved parent, and regular opportunities to listen to and perform.

Voice (adults)

Adult voice classes concentrate on basic vocal technique including registers, breathing, range, and diction. Unique teaching methods and small class size (4 to 5 students) produce good results after a short period of time. The class is recommended not only for people interested in singing, but also for adults who would like to improve their speaking voice. Private voice lessons also available

One Book, One Northwestern

A full program of events has kicked off for our new One Book One Northwestern selection, Hidden Figures. For more information about the One Book One Northwestern program, please contact Nancy Cunniff at onebook@northwestern.edu or 847-467-2294.

Hidden Figures* by Margot Lee Shetterly Selected for One Book Program 2019-2020

Hidden Figures is the true story of the black women mathematicians at NASA who helped fuel some of America's greatest achievements in space. In the book, Shetterly celebrates these unsung heroes, teasing out issues of race, gender, science and innovation against the backdrop of WWII and the Civil Rights Era.

Hidden Figures by Margot Lee Shetterly is Northwestern University's One Book One Northwestern all-campus read for the 2019-20 academic year. For the first time this year, all first-year and transfer students will receive an eBook copy over the summer. The author of the book, Margot Lee Shetterly, will be on campus October 17 at both the Chicago and Evanston campuses.

One Book One Northwestern is a community-wide reading program hosted by the Office of the President. It aims to engage the campus in a common conversation centered on a carefully chosen, thought-provoking book. It began in 2005 for students in the Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences and has since evolved into a community-wide program involving students, faculty and staff from all majors and departments.

Everyone is encouraged to read the One Book selection. The Office of the President sends a free copy to incoming first-year and transfer students the summer before they arrive on campus.

Throughout the year, events like lectures, films, and discussion groups provide an opportunity for individuals to gather and talk about the issues presented in the book. Many of these events are open to the public and the entire community is invited to participate. Visit the Participate section to learn how you can get involved.

Scores of disturbing indicators tell us today's teens are forty percent less empathetic than they were thirty years ago. This self-absorption epidemic hurts kids' academic performance and resilience, and it can lead to sadness and bullying behaviors. Once children grow up, a lack of empathy hampers their ability to collaborate, innovate, and problem solve—all must-have skills for the global economy. Empathy is a trait that can be taught and nurtured to yield the results we all want: successful, happy children who also are kind, moral, and courageous, and able to shift their focus from I, me, and mine to we, us, and ours.

FAN Event: Stanford's Jamil Zaki on Building Empathy in a Fractured World

Our modern society is practically designed to destroy empathy. As cities grow and solitary living becomes more common, we see more people than ever before but know fewer of them. Rituals that bring us into regular contact—attending church, participating in team sports—have given way to solitary pursuits, often carried out over the Internet. When we encounter someone online, the first thing we often learn about them is what we like the least. They are enemies before they have a chance to be people. Amid these toxic social forces, studies demonstrate that the average person's empathy has eroded over the last forty years. Jamil Zaki, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Psychology and Director of the Stanford Social Neuroscience Laboratory at Stanford University, has dedicated his career to understanding why.
