What forms of security are sought in times of uncertainty?

Distinguished scholars and artists will consider struggles over security from all eras and regions to create a sustained dialogue that demonstrates a variety of approaches in the arts and humanities. Break A Rule: Ed Paschke’s Art and Teaching

Thurs, 10/11 to Sun, 12/9, free
Block Museum of Art, 40 Arts Circle Dr, Evanston
Contact: 847-491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu

Ed Paschke (1939–2004) often began his classes with the assignment to “break a rule.” A bold innovator who enjoyed disrupting conventions, Paschke mentored students at over two and a half decades at Northwestern University to think outside the box. His work and his teaching were devoted to experimentation, playful exploration of the human experience, and capturing “every manner of humanity.” This exhibition considers his teaching alongside his art, foregrounding his printmaking along with self-produced pedagogical materials, to offer a new perspective on this well-known Chicago artist.

The exhibit is organized around three tenets at the core of Ed Paschke’s teaching and artistic practices: learn the rules in order to break them, trust your instincts, and get out of your comfort zone. While Paschke taught his students basic techniques in painting and drawing, he also encouraged them to break rules and create something entirely their own.

Paschke, who exhibited with the Chicago Imagists and gained recognition in the 1960s and 70s, is known for a range of subjects and characters often considered to be from the social margins. His own works also featured members of the many of Chicago’s various alternative communities, including strippers, burlesque dancers, Lucha Libre wrestlers, and boxers. However, he also sometimes took classic images, like a photograph of the head of the Sphinx, and experiment with color additions, adding symbols and patterns, and covered the original image to render it his own. The process of forging new ground required trusting one’s instincts, and Paschke noted that one challenge of teaching was encouraging intelligent students, accustomed to relying on logic, to break rules and trust their gut instinct. He also encouraged his students to get out of their comfort zone. This diversity and interaction he encouraged was in his words “the very pulse of life” and his attempt to capture it was central to his work. He often said that people loved his work or hated it, and either reaction was fine with him—as long as they were not indifferent.

Up is Down: Mid-Century Experimentation in Advertising and Film at the Goldsholl Studio

Thurs, 10/11 to Sun, 12/9, free
Block Museum of Art, 40 Arts Circle Dr, Evanston
Contact: 847-491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu

In the 1950s, Chicago-based design firm Goldsholl and Associates made a name for itself with innovative "designs-in-film." Headed by Morton and Millie Goldsholl, the studio produced television spots, films, trademarks, corporate identities, and print advertisements for international corporations like Kimberly-Clark, Motorola, and 7-Up. Although they were compared to some of the most celebrated design firms of the day, the Goldsholls and their designers are relatively unknown today. Opening in September 2018, the Block Museum’s exhibition Up is Down: Mid-Century Experimentation in Advertising and Film at the Goldsholl Studio will reexamine the innovative work of Goldsholl and Associates and its national impact.

The Goldsholls attended Chicago’s Institute of Design (ID) and were inspired by ID’s founder, the artist and designer László Moholy-Nagy. The curriculum at ID included motion picture production, which Moholy-Nagy viewed as a medium of light and collage. Deeply influenced by Moholy-Nagy’s teachings and Bauhaus approach, with its ethos of aesthetic experimentation and social engagement, Morton and Millie fostered a similar attitude among designers working in their firm. Their work in film grew equally out of the unique moving image and design culture of Chicago. At midcentury, Chicago was known as the “Hollywood” for educational film production, churning out thousands of educational and promotional films each year. Filmmakers worked expansively—producing slide shows, short films, and spectacular industry installations, in addition to print advertising and other ephemera. The creative work these artists pursued often influenced their commercial productions and vice versa.

Featuring films, television ads, and other kinds of moving images alongside designed objects, print advertisements, trademarks, photographs, and drawings, Up is Down will be the first exhibition to illuminate the distinctive brand of motion pictures that Chicago became known for in mid-century and the ways the city served as an influential testing ground for ideas connecting art, industry, design, and film. The exhibition, its related publication, and public programs will provide context for understanding Chicago as a unique site for ideas connecting art, design, and film that eventually gained international currency.

Ideas about representation, citizenship, and sexuality are represented by images, which are themselves reflective of race, class and gender. What people watch or listen to - music, new channels and radio stations, newspapers, social media and images on television and film - has a strong influence in shaping common beliefs about what American values are and who gets to share and who does not get to share in those values. The continuing discussions about these issues filtered through social media, film and television in the United States is a dialogue that demands visual rendering.

NUPOC Gallery Features: Paintings by John Jacobsen: Of the Flesh, but Not the World

Contact: R. J. Garrick, PhD, 312-503-5700

John Jacobsen, PhD, artist and engineer, paints representational works from life, memory and imagination. This exhibit includes 4 paintings done at NUPOC and 5 figurative paintings and drawings of live models completed at the Palette and Chisel Academy of Fine Arts (Chicago). Observing life and studying anatomy are centuries-old strategies for painting convincing illusions - to create bodies that are “of the flesh, but not the world.”

Dr. Jacobsen spent more than 6 months painting anatomical models, prostheses and orthoses at NUPOC. Dr. Jacobsen observed, “P&O artifacts represent a meeting of the human organism, with its animal origins and the engineered world. Limbs lost, or never present, can be augmented in capability, at times far beyond their baseline functionality.” P&O engages in the intensely human endeavor of building devices that replace or extend the function of bodies that are challenged by trauma, age or genetics.

Dr. Jacobsen maintains a regular studio practice that focuses on figurative art based on observation and imagination. At the Palette and Chisel Academy of Fine Arts, he works to further develop his technique with painters that include Andrew S. Conklin, Stephen Assael and Larry Paulsen. Dr. Jacobsen melds a creative life in both art and engineering.

Multi-award-winning drama The Madness of George III will be broadcast live to cinemas, in National Theatre Live’s first ever broadcast from Nottingham Playhouse.

Written by one of Britain’s best-loved playwrights Alan Bennett (The History Boys, The Lady in the Van), this epic play was also adapted into a BAFTA Award-winning film following its premiere on stage in 1991. The cast of this new production includes Olivier Award-winners Mark Gatiss (Sherlock, Wolf Hall, NT Live: Coriolanus) in the title role, and Adrian Scarborough (Gavin and Stacey, Upstairs Downstairs, After the Dance).

It’s 1786 and King George III is the most powerful man in the world. But his behavior is becoming increasingly erratic as he succumbs to fits of lunacy. With the King’s mind unravelling at a dramatic pace, ambitious politicians and the scheming Prince of Wales threaten to undermine the power of the Crown, and expose the fine line between a King and a man.

For more than 70 years, Northwestern University's Music Academy in Evanston has provided music instruction to children and adult students from surrounding communities and the greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana area.

Other Courses
(offerred throughout the school year)

Piano and Organ
The Music Academy Piano Division offers pre-piano class, which serves as an introduction to more formal piano instruction: keyboard instruction in two tracks for students ages 6 to 18, and instruction for adults. Pre-piano serves as an introduction to more formal piano instruction. Keyboard instruction for children begins with pre-staff music and expands to landmark-based intervallic reading. After the first year of study, most children participate in the Illinois State Music Teacher's Association curriculum assessment, where they demonstrate skills and receive certificates and pins for participation.

Strings
The String Division offers private lessons in violin, viola, and cello, with goals of both providing musical instruction and instilling a love of music and of learning music. The division believes that all children can learn to their potential when placed in an environment that includes clear instruction, an involved parent, and regular opportunities to listen to and perform.

Voice (adults)
Adult voice classes concentrate on basic vocal technique including registers, breathing, range, and diction. Unique teaching methods and small class size (4 to 5 students) produce good results after a short period of time. The class is recommended not only for people interested in singing, but also for adults who would like to improve their speaking voice. Private voice lessons also available.

One Book, One Northwestern

A full program of events has kicked off for our new One Book One Northwestern selection, The Handmaid’s Tale. For more information about the One Book One Northwestern program, please contact Nancy Cunniff at onebook@northwestern.edu or 847-467-2294.

The Handmaid’s Tale by Margaret Atwood
Selected for One Book Program 2018-2019

“The Handmaid’s Tale,” a book set in a dystopian future in which the U.S. government has been overthrown by an authoritarian regime that uses fertile women as handmaids to bear children for the ruling class, is Northwestern University’s One Book One Northwestern all-campus read for the 2018-19 academic year. The author of “The Handmaid’s Tale,” Margaret Atwood, will deliver a keynote address Oct. 30 at Northwestern on both campuses. All first-year students are given a copy of the One Book each year.

One Book One Northwestern is a community-wide reading program hosted by the Office of the President. It aims to engage the campus in a common conversation centered on a carefully chosen, thought-provoking book. It began in 2005 for students in the Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences and has since evolved into a community-wide program involving students, faculty and staff from all majors and departments.

Everyone is encouraged to read the One Book selection. The Office of the President sends a free copy to incoming first-year and transfer students the summer before they arrive on campus.

Throughout the year, events like lectures, films, and discussion groups provide an opportunity for individuals to gather and talk about the issues presented in the book. Many of these events are open to the public and the entire community is invited to participate. Visit the Participate section to learn how you can get involved.

Join us for a dialogue-based discussion focused on women 55 and older contemplating their career trajectories and leadership opportunities in the latter stage of their careers. Bring a lunch.

Thurs, 12/6, 7:00-9:00 PM, free

In this science fiction cult favorite, a near collision with a comet causes a catastrophe for the planet, killing most living creatures. The select few humans who survived unscathed band together, looking for other survivors while having to contend with the living dead. Filmmaker Thom Eberhardt wrote Night of the Comet around the premise of “valley girls at the end of the world,” and its mix of comedy, camp, and chills is gnarly indeed.
Traduttore: The Instrumentalism of Conventional Wisdom
Laurence Venuti (Northwestern University)
Wed, 12/5, 3:00-6:00 PM, free
Norris University Center, 202, 1999 Campus Drive, Evanston
Contact: Irene Sakk, 847-491-7020, i-sakk@northwestern.edu
The discussion explores how instrumentalism preempts an understanding of translation as an interpretative act that inevitably varies source-text form, meaning, and effect even when the translator maintains a semantic correspondence and a stylistic approximation. At the same time, instrumentalism restricts the definition of the translator’s linguistic competence and leads to notions of untranslatability. Yet if translation is indeed an interpretation, no text is untranslatable since every text can be interpreted. The aim of the talk is to defamiliarize notions that have come to be all too familiar as truths of translation, to show how they actually limit thinking about what translation is and does, and to indicate other, more productive directions that thinking can take.

Face/Off or On?: Face Transplants and the Resistance to Categorization
Thurs, 12/6, 12:00-12:45 PM, free
Robert H Lurie Medical Research Center, 1st floor - Searle room, 303 E. Superior, Chicago
Contact: Myria Knox, 312-503-7962, p-knox@northwestern.edu
Both like and not like cosmetic surgery and whole organ transplants, facial allografts have proven difficult to categorize. This talk will show how bioethicists, surgeons, and journalists have conceptualized face transplants as neither and both, and the resulting stakes for each. Paying particular attention to the media coverage of Isabelle Dinoire’s partial facial allograft in 2005, I will discuss the implications of this resistance to categorization for bioethical debates around FAT.

Genealogies of Emergency
Siraj Ahmed (Lehman College)

Fri, 12/7, 4:00-5:00 PM, free
Kresge Hall, Kaplan Seminar Room, 2-351, 1880 Campus Drive, Evanston
Contact: Sarah Peters, 847-491-3864, sarah.mcginley@northwestern.edu

Theorists conventionally treat the global state of emergency in which we live as a political and juridical condition. But it is, first of all, a discursive practice, whereby the sovereign circumscribes language’s performative power within his own speech. He arrogates the right, univocally, to suspend the constitution and to declare the laws that govern in its place. Literary scholars have not yet imagined a critical method that opposes emergency, even though it is now the practice that expropriates language’s creativity. This talk imagines what such a method might be.

EES Seminar: Improving the Efficiency of Anaerobic Digestion Processes
Konrad Koch (Technical University of Munich, Germany)

Fri, 12/7, 2:00-3:00 PM, free
Technological Institute, A230, 2145 Sheridan Road, Evanston
Contact: Tierney Acott, 847-491-3257, tierney-acott@northwestern.edu

Wastewater treatment plants are currently still the largest municipal consumers of electricity, although wastewater contains more than enough energy required for its purification. While treatment of wastewater under the given limits for discharge still has the highest priority, there are some approaches for both to reduce the energy required for the treatment and to recover more energy from it.
