Where: Online

Contact: Njoki Kamau, (847) 491-2734, womenscenter@northwestern.edu

International Women's Day with guest speaker Teresa Wasonga.

Teresa Wasonga is a Distinguished Engagement Professor of Educational Leadership at Northern Illinois University. She is a Fulbright Scholar (Kenya) and US Ambassador's Distinguished Scholar (Ethiopia). She is also the founder of an all-girls secondary school in Kenya – “Built for the richest, open to the poorest.” She received her doctorate in Educational Leadership and Policy from University of Missouri, Columbia, and has taught at NIU for 20 years. Her research seeks to explain the role of school leadership in student achievement, and capacity building to enhance outcomes for all students, with specific focus on girls and the underserved. Outcomes of her research in Tanzania, Kenya, Ethiopia and the USA continue to inform her practices.

Northwestern University Dance Marathon

Now in its 49th year, NUDM is one of largest entirely student-run philanthropies in the nation. Every year, 1000+ dancers and committee members come together to create NUDM and dance for 30 hours to benefit NUDM's primary and secondary beneficiaries. The NUDM 2023 primary beneficiary is Little Heroes League and NUDM's long-standing secondary beneficiary is the Evanston Community Foundation. Since 1975, NUDM has raised more than $22 million for more than 30 different charitable organizations. Join us March 3-5, 2023 in the tent.

Loyola University's Climate Change Conference: Climate Refugees

When: Thursday, March 16, 2023, All day

Where: Hybrid

Contact: Jeff Henderson, (847) 467-1972, jeffhenderson@northwestern.edu

From floods to wildfires to droughts, the changing climate increasingly impacts human migration, adding to the growing number of displaced people worldwide.

Loyola University Chicago's annual Climate Change Conference will convene experts from multiple disciplines to explore how climate-driven migration will affect communities locally and globally. The conference draws inspiration from Loyola's enduring Jesuit values of social justice, service to humanity, and care for our world, highlighting the need for just and equitable solutions to the climate crisis.

The 2023 Climate Change Conference will feature a keynote speaker and a panel of experts who will discuss issues confronting the international community, including:

1. Large-scale human migration due to resource scarcity, increased frequency of extreme weather events, and other factors, particularly in the developing countries in the earth's lower latitudes
2. Intensifying intra- and inter-state competition for food, water, and other resources; Increased frequency and severity of disease outbreaks
3. Increased US border stress due to the severe effects of climate change in parts of Central America

The conference will take place on Loyola's Lake Shore Campus in the Damen Student Center. A streaming option will be available for those who choose to participate online.

Northwestern's Women in Medicine Conference

When: Friday, March 24, 2023, 8:00 AM - 4:30 PM Central

Where: Northwestern Memorial Hospital Feinberg Pavilion, Feinberg A - 3rd Floor, 251 E. Huron, Chicago, IL

Cost: $50

Contact: Amanda Harrison, (312) 926-4653, amanda.harrison@northwestern.edu

Women in medicine face unique challenges and obstacles throughout their professional careers. These challenges may affect leadership development and opportunities for women in medicine resulting in a gender gap in the governance of academic medical centers. Women physicians and other health care workers currently lack a conference or forum for discussing strategies to achieve equality in the workplace, wellness and work-life balance, mentorship and career development. The 5th annual Northwestern Women in Medicine conference will help to identify the obstacles that contribute to gender inequity and will start the discourse to bridge it by hosting an in-person conference.

We will shed light on gender disparities and then share experiences and tools to overcome the barriers that exist in medicine for female physicians so as to empower and create a network to lean upon.

2023 Women's History Month Symposium: Lessons from Harm Reduction

When: Thursday, March 9, 2023, 3:30 PM - 5:00 PM Central

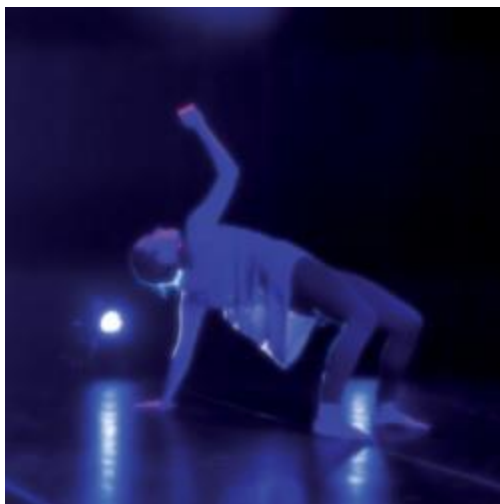

Where: Online

Contact: Melisa Stephen, (847) 491-7360, womenscenter@northwestern.edu

2023 Women's History Month Symposium: Lessons from Harm Reduction keynote panel discussion featuring Shira Hassan, Cara Page, and Erica Woodland. Shira Hassan has been working in her own community and speaking nationally on the sex trade, harm reduction, self-injury, healing justice and transformative justice for nearly 30 years. Currently working as a fellow at Interrupting Criminalization, Shira runs The Help Desk, which offers supportive thought partnership to individuals and groups working to interrupt crises and violence without using the police. Along with Mariame Kaba, she is the co-author of Fumbling Towards Repair: A Workbook for Community Accountability. Facilitators and the author of Saving Our Own Lives: A Liberatory Practice of Harm Reduction.

Cara Page is a Black Queer Feminist cultural memory worker & organizer. For the past 30+ years, she has organized with LGBTQI+, Black, Indigenous & People of Color liberation movements in the US & Global South at the intersections of racial, gender & economic justice, healing justice and transformative justice. She is founder of Changing Frequencies, an abolitionist organizing project that designs cultural memory work to disrupt harms and violence from the Medical Industrial Complex (MIC). She is also co-founder of the Healing Histories Project; a network of abolitionist healers/health practitioners, community organizers, researchers/historians & cultural workers building solidarity to interrupt the medical industrial complex and harmful systems of care. We generate change through research, action and building collaborative strategies & stories with BIPOC-led communities, institutions and movements organizing for dignified collective care.

Erica Woodland, LCSW is a Black queer, trans masculine/genderqueer facilitator, consultant, psychotherapist and healing justice practitioner who was born, raised, and is currently based in Baltimore, MD. He has worked at the intersections of movements for racial, gender, economic, trans and queer justice and liberation for more than 20 years. He has extensive experience working with young people, Black, Indigenous and People of Color, LGBTQ people, and people with disabilities across the country, from Baltimore to the San Francisco Bay Area. Erica is co-editor of Healing Justice Lineages: Dreaming at the Crossroads of Liberation, Collective Care and Safety, with Cara Page (North Atlantic Books, 2023).

Art Exhibitions and Discussions

The Heart's Knowledge: Science and Empathy in the Art of Dario Robleto

When: Thursday, January 26 - Sunday, July 9, 2023

Where: Block Museum of Art, Mary and Leigh, 40 Arts Circle Drive, Evanston, IL 60208

Cost: Free

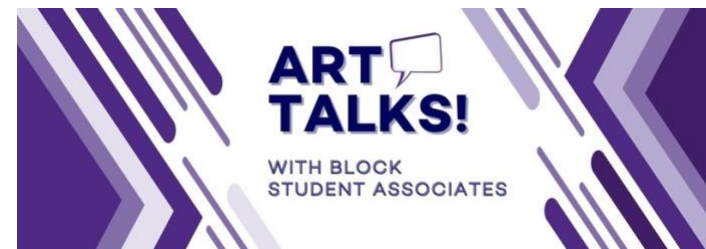

Contact: Lindsay Bosch, lindsay.bosch@northwestern.edu

What do we owe to the memories of one another's hearts?

For American artist Dario Robleto (b. 1972), artists and scientists share a common aspiration: to increase the sensitivity of their observations. Throughout the history of scientific invention, instruments like the cardiograph and the telescope have extended the reach of perception from the tiniest stirrings of the human body to the farthest reaches of space. In his prints, sculptures, and video and sound installations, Robleto contemplates the emotional significance of these technologies, bringing us closer to the latent traces of life buried in the scientific record.

The Heart's Knowledge concentrates on the most recent decade of Robleto's creative practice, a period of deepening engagement with histories of medicine, biomedical engineering, sound recording, and space exploration. The exhibition organizes the artist's conceptually ambitious, elegantly wrought artworks as a series of multisensory encounters between art and science. Each work seeks to attune viewers to the material traces of life at scales ranging from the intimate to the universal, returning always to the question: Does empathy extend beyond the boundaries of time and space?

Art Talks! With Block Student Associates – On Wavelengths

When: Saturday, March 4, 2023, 12:30 PM - 1:30 PM Central

Where: Block Museum of Art, Mary and Leigh, 40 Arts Circle Drive, Evanston, IL

Contact: Block Museum of Art, (847) 491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu

Journalism and Economics. Cognitive Science and Chemical Engineering. Global Health and Political Science.

Inspired by Dario Robleto's consideration of the ways that art and science intersect to create new meaning, we invite you to meet a cross-disciplinary match-up of Block Museum Student Associates in our galleries for a close look at works on view in The Heart's Knowledge: Science and Empathy in the Art of Dario Robleto. Students will together discuss works that spark their curiosity and consider the ways that the works resonate with their own fields of study.

Today's talk will focus on works in the Wavelengths section of the exhibition.

Free, 45-minute talks take place in the gallery.

Programs are open to all, on a first-come first-served basis. RSVPs not required, but appreciated.

Exhibition Conversation [Online]: Ann Druyan, The Golden Record, and the Memory of Our Hearts

When: Wednesday, March 8, 2023, 6:00 PM - 7:30 PM Central

Where: Online - Webcast Link

Contact: Block Museum of Art, (847) 491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu
What do we owe to the memory of each other's hearts? From her work in the 1970s as the Creative Director for NASA's Voyager Interstellar Messaging Project to her current role as writer and producer of the beloved television series Cosmos, Ann Druyan has devoted her life to expanding the horizons of human empathy and communication. In insisting that the thresholds of cosmic exploration must be approached with sincerity, humility, and generosity, she has had a deep influence on Dario Robleto's work throughout his career. Druyan and Robleto will be joined in conversation with The Heart's Knowledge catalogue contributor Jennifer Roberts, Professor of the Humanities at Harvard, who is co-authoring a book with Robleto about the interstellar journey of the pulsewave recordings that Druyan included on the Voyager Golden Record.

Touring Multimedia Exhibition: Thomas Mann - Democracy Will Win

When: January 30 - March 30, All Day

Where: Deering Library, 1937 Sheridan Road, Evanston, IL

Contact: Courtney Essenpreis, (847) 491-7249, courtney.essenpreis@northwestern.edu

The Department of German presents the touring multimedia exhibition

Thomas Mann: Democracy Will Win, visiting the Northwestern Deering Library January 30th to March 30th.
Exiled to the USA during the Nazi regime, the German Nobel-prizewinning writer Thomas Mann was a powerful opponent of National Socialism and a committed champion of democracy. The current sociopolitical issues in Germany and the United States render his call for an active renewal of democracy "in thought and feeling" as relevant today as it was in 1933.

Film Screenings

FOG LINE (1970) and HORIZONS (1973) with filmmaker Larry Gottheim

When: Wednesday, March 1, 2023, 7:00 PM - 9:00 PM Central

Contact: Block Museum of Art, (847) 491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu
A key figure in American avant-garde cinema since the 1970s, Larry Gottheim has influenced countless filmmakers, both through his patient, sensuous 16mm films, and through his role in founding the Cinema Department at the State University of New York, Binghamton, one of the country's first and most prodigious undergraduate programs dedicated to personal and experimental filmmaking. This program features two of Gottheim's most elemental films: his renowned short FOG LINE, a rapturous 11-minute shot bearing witness to a fog gradually lifting from a bucolic countryside (described by critic Dave Kehr as "one of the most hauntingly beautiful of all avant-garde films"); and HORIZONS, a landscape film whose formal simplicity belies infinitely complex interactions of light, time, nature, and film emulsion. Following the screening, Gottheim will appear in person for a discussion with J.P. Sniadecki, Professor and Director of the MFA in Documentary Media at Northwestern.

GIUSEPPINA (1960) and THE UMBRELLAS OF CHERBOURG (1964)

When: Thursday, March 2, 2023, 6:30 PM - 9:00 PM Central

Where: Block Museum of Art, Mary and Leigh, 40 Arts Circle Drive, Evanston, IL

Contact: Block Museum of Art, (847) 491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu
The two films in this program offer brightly-hued glimpses of the optimistic image that oil companies sought to project into the popular imagination of the 1950s and 60s.

Commissioned by British Petroleum, GIUSEPPINA (James Hill, 1960) follows a young girl in rural Italy stuck spending the day at her father's service station. Despite her disappointment, Giuseppina's day is punctuated by the episodic pleasures of diverse passers-by, positioning the gas station as a crossroads of humanity—and a source of charming, everyday entertainment. Turning BP's green-and-yellow brand into feat of pop-modernist artifice, GIUSEPPINA was awarded an Oscar (inexplicably, in the Best Documentary Short category) and was later acquired by the BBC as a "trade test film" to aid calibration and sales in the early days of color broadcasting. THE UMBRELLAS OF CHERBOURG (1964), a collaboration between director Jacques Demy and composer Michel Legrand, is perhaps best known for its unique formal universe in which all speech is sung and every room is a pocket of coordinated, Technicolor saturation. The intoxicating optimism of the film's form is paired, however, with the devastating love story of Guy (Nino Castelnuovo) and Geneviève (Catherine Deneuve) who dream, at the film's opening, of one day opening a gas station together.

Brian Jacobson, Professor of Visual Culture at California Institute of Technology, will introduce the program and participate in a question and answer session facilitated by Ph.D. student in Screen Cultures Kylie Walters following the films.

ONE IMAGE, TWO ACTS (2020) with filmmaker Sanaz Sohrabi

When: Friday, March 3, 2023, 7:00 PM - 8:30 PM Central
 Where: Block Museum of Art, Mary and Leigh, 40 Arts Circle Drive, Evanston, IL
 Contact: Block Museum of Art, (847) 491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu

ONE IMAGE, TWO ACTS with filmmaker Sanaz Sohrabi
 (SANAZ SOHRABI, 2020, 44 MIN, DIGITAL)

IN PERSON: SANAZ SOHRABI

In ONE IMAGE, TWO ACTS, Montreal-based Iranian filmmaker Sanaz Sohrabi draws on the photographic archives of British Petroleum to examine the visual and social history of oil production in Abadan, Iran in the 1950s and 1960s. Before it became BP, the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company sought to construct a thoroughly modern oil metropolis in Abadan, exhaustively documenting their operations in photographs and films. This formally inventive essay film examines these corporate images as technologies of social control, placing propaganda alongside scenes from the anti-colonial Iranian New Wave cinema to propose the possibilities of resistance and critique. Following the film, director Sanaz Sohrabi will appear in person for a conversation with Mona Damluji, Assistant Professor of Film & Media Studies at UC Santa Barbara.

Mann at the Movies: Mephisto

When: Wednesday, March 1, 2023, 7:00 PM - 9:00 PM Central
 Where: Kresge Hall, Trienens Forum (1515), 1880 Campus Drive, Evanston, IL
 Contact: Courtney Essenpreis, (847) 491-7249, courtney.essenpreis@northwestern.edu

Join us for the third film screening for the "Man at the Movies" film series. All films in the series are adaptations of works by Thomas and Klaus Mann. The series supplements the travelling exhibit "Thomas Mann: Democracy Will Win!" on display on the ground floor of Northwestern's Main Library from late January to mid-March.

All films will be shown with subtitles and are free and open to the public.

BEING BEBE (2021) with BeBe Zahara Benet & filmmaker Emily Branham

When: Thursday, March 9, 2023, 5:00 PM - 7:30 PM Central
 Where: Block Museum of Art, Mary and Leigh, Auditorium, 40 Arts Circle Drive, Evanston, IL
 Contact: Block Museum of Art, (847) 491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu

"BEING BEBE is the story of Marshall Ngwa, a Cameroonian artist whose identity hinges on the complicated success of his drag persona, BeBe Zahara Benet. Grounded by Marshall's own present-day narration, the film features 15 years of vérité, interviews, and performances. Viewers follow Marshall's remarkable immigrant journey from the earliest days of his amateur drag performance career in Minneapolis, circa 2006, to becoming the first winner of the now-iconic reality show RuPaul's Drag Race in 2009. As Marshall fights to maintain the trajectory of his career despite a series of difficult setbacks, the film reveals what it means to celebrate and advance Queer Black Excellence during the 2020s. Alongside Marshall's story, viewers are introduced to LGBTQ+ youth and activists in Cameroon, where Queer identity is criminalized." --Good Docs

Followed by a conversation with Emily Branham and Marshall Ngwa AKA BeBe Zahara Benet, moderated by E. Patrick Johnson (Dean of the School of Communication).

About the guests:

Emily Branham is a filmmaker who specializes in unexpected, intimate, and deeply human films about artists. Her first feature documentary, BEING BEBE, premiered at Tribeca Festival, was a New York Times Critic's Pick, won Jury & Audience Awards on its festival tour across 5 continents, and was picked up by Fuse Media in the US as well as OUTtv, FrootTV, SVT and DR in territories worldwide. She studied Radio/TV/Film on the directing track at Northwestern University and lives in New York City.

BeBe Zahara Benet is equal parts bold, beautiful, and business-minded. Simply stated: The international recording artist, TV personality, activist and pop culture provocateur breaks the entertainment mold. Benet is best known as the inaugural winner of RuPaul's Drag Race, the star of TLC's Dragnificent and the subject of the award-winning documentary Being BeBe.

Northwestern Music Academy

Learn more online

For more than 70 years, Northwestern University's Music Academy in Evanston has provided music instruction to children and adult students from surrounding communities and the greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana area.

Most Academy instructors also teach in the Henry and Leigh Bienen School of Music and hold masters and doctoral degrees in music teaching and performance. The Academy often serves as a teaching laboratory for college students enrolled in pedagogy courses and is a member of the National Guild of Community Schools of the Arts.

Kindermusik (newborn to age 6)

Dates: Term starts Jan 28 and ends May 13. Cost: $300-355 (15-week class and home materials)

This 45-minute class is a lovely way for young children and parents to interact. Multi-level activities that are appropriate for each stage of a child's development give lap babies, crawlers, and walkers a chance to explore music, touch, sound, and movement. Home materials including a CD, a book related to the theme of the unit, and an instrument provide additional ideas for sharing the class experience at home.

Other Courses

(offered virtually and in-person Winter Quarter)

Piano and Organ

The Music Academy Piano Division offers pre-piano class, which serves as an introduction to more formal piano instruction: keyboard instruction in two tracks for students ages 6 to 18, and instruction for adults. Pre-piano serves as an introduction to more formal piano instruction. Keyboard instruction for children begins with pre-staff music and expands to landmark-based intervallic reading. After the first year of study, most children participate in the Illinois State Music Teacher's Association curriculum assessment, where they demonstrate skills and receive certificates and pins for participation.

Strings

The String Division offers private lessons in violin, viola, and cello, with goals of both providing musical instruction and instilling a love of music and of learning music. The division believes that all children can learn to their potential when placed in an environment that includes clear instruction, an involved parent, and regular opportunities to listen to and perform.

Norris Outdoors

Norris University Center offers a wide range of equipment available to rent for your outdoor adventures including:

- camping equipment (tents, backpacks, etc.)

Grand Challenges in Robotics: Dexterity, Moderated by Julie Shah, MIT, "The Economic and Societal Impacts of the Coming Dexterity Revolution"

When: Thursday, March 2, 2023, 12:00 PM - 1:00 PM Central

Where: Online

Contact: Amy Nedoss, amy.nedoss@northwestern.edu

Moderator: Julie Shah, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Panelists: Ben Armstrong, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Anders Beck, Universal Robots; Robert Seamans, New York University

Based on the data we have from industrial and collaborative robots, we can anticipate challenges with technology design and adoption, as well as winners and losers from any leap forward in automation. This panel will provide a multidisciplinary perspective on the impact of robots today with an eye toward how dexterity might avoid the challenges that previous generations of robots have faced.

Tracing the Decolonial Turn in Data Research: Notes on Intersecting Energy Cultures and Environmental Media

When: Thursday, March 2, 2023, 5:15 PM - 6:45 PM Central

Where: Kresge Hall, #2351 (Kaplan Institute), 1880 Campus Drive, Evanston, IL

Contact: Jill Mannor, (847) 467-3970, jill.mannor@northwestern.edu

'Global' Big Tech social media companies, fintech corporations, and video-on-demand streaming services are criticized for being data accumulators and aggregators, and for implementing a regime of 'data colonialism' based primarily on data extraction as a new kind of capitalistic resource extraction. Even as 'Big Tech' social media companies are criticized by particular national(ist) ruling regimes for their data extraction practices, the government supported 'national' social media and telecom companies are not engaging in decolonial practices themselves given their participation in global networked capitalism(s). In this talk, I discuss how debates about location of data centers in particular countries is imbricated in debates about data colonialism and intersecting energy cultures.

Rahul Mukherjee is an Associate Professor of English, and of Television and New Media Studies at the University of Pennsylvania. He is author of Radiant Infrastructures: Media, Environment, and Cultures of Uncertainty (2020), which studies how radiation as a form of energy and infrastructure creates "environmental publics" which articulate contesting views about the relationship between modernity, wireless signals, and nuclear power.

Hollywood & Mind

When: Thursday, March 2, 2023, 7:00 PM - 10:00 PM Central

Where: Abbott Hall, 203, 710 N. Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, IL

Contact: Pritzker Pucker Studio Lab for the Promotion of Mental Health via Cinematic Arts, studiolab@northwestern.edu

Entertainment journalist and Medill alum Cathy Applefeld Olson discusses what she's learned interviewing artists and executives in the Hollywood industries about mental health, and her new venture Hollywood & Mind, which is focused on leveraging the unrivaled influence of the entertainment community to elevate mental wellness.

Cathy Applefeld Olson is a veteran entertainment industry journalist, event producer, and entrepreneur who is passionate about destigmatizing mental health. During the course of her career reporting for publications including Billboard, Forbes, Cynopsis, and Multichannel News, she's spoken with talent and executives about their mental health struggles, approaches to solutions, and ways in which the industry can make an impact. These exchanges combined with conversations around her own kitchen table catalyzed her to launch Hollywood & Mind. This business serves as an alliance to incubate ideas and foster intersectional learning, collaboration, and solutions in an effort to leverage the power of entertainment to help diminish our mental health crisis. The venture, an evolution of Cathy's Forbes column that features interviews with musicians, actors, and other cultural influencers, will hold its inaugural event in May at UTA in Los Angeles.

Where: Parkes Hall, TBA, 1870 Sheridan Road, Evanston, IL

Contact: Michaela Marchi, (847) 491-4133, michaela.marchi@northwestern.edu

Brown Bags are open to the CNAIR community and offer a chance to learn from one another, connect and engage in conversation centered on what a practice of using Indigenous Methodologies consists of and how it can be incorporated into your research. Don't forget your lunch!

This talk discusses some of my collaborations with Pokagon Band of Potawatomi archivists and language keepers to research the history of Simon Pokagon's birchbark booklets, primarily those thought to be printed for the 1893 World's Fair, The Red Man's Rebuke/Greeting. I'll share the research I've done as part of an effort to produce a contemporary edition of the booklets, including evidence of the booklets' readers and a number of makers who complicate the usual focus on Pokagon as single author, in order to open up a conversation about the possible, existing, and/or deferred relationships among Native American and Indigenous Studies methods and research methods in the humanities.

Richard Saller (Stanford). "Pliny's Natural History: "a culture of innovation"?"

When: Friday, March 3, 2023, 12:00 PM - 1:30 PM Central

Where: Kellogg Global Hub, 3301, 2211 Campus Drive, Evanston, IL

Contact: Elizabeth Upenieks, (847) 491-7597, classics@northwestern.edu

E. W. Gudger described Pliny's Natural History as "the most popular Natural History ever published" and it has been regarded as the beginning of the genre of encyclopedias in the European tradition. In the early modern era the pioneering encyclopedias of the Englishmen John Harris and Ephraim Chambers, and the Frenchman Denis Diderot were expressions of a "culture of technical innovation and economic growth." The same has been said of Pliny's Natural History, and it is certainly the most obvious text to examine in search of Roman imperial cultural values of utilitarian knowledge. What was its role in the production and dissemination of useful knowledge?

Emily Vasquez - "Treating Risk, Deepening Inequality: Narratives of Biomedical Prevention in Mexico"

When: Monday, March 6, 2023, 4:30 PM - 6:00 PM Central

Where: University Hall, Hagstrum Room 201, 1897 Sheridan Road, Evanston, IL

Contact: Janet Hundrieser, (847) 491-3525, jh744@northwestern.edu

Set against Mexico's chronic disease crisis, where type 2 diabetes was declared a national sanitary emergency in 2016, this talk examines the unlikely rise of prediabetes diagnosis as a leading public health prevention strategy and its uptake in clinical care across Mexico City. Extending the modalities of diabetes treatment to those who are not yet sick but rather "at risk" for the disease, prediabetes diagnosis deepens the reach of biomedical surveillance and clinical management of glucose in the bloodstream. And yet, it does so unevenly. Drawing on long-term ethnographic encounters in diverse clinical settings, I show that the contours of the diagnosis and the care of those living with this predisease are deeply entangled with legacies of race and class that divide and disparately valorize Mexican bodies, local institutional political economies, and the vested interests of those promoting the diagnosis across this field. Interested not just in the ontological multiplicity of the "scientific fact" of prediabetes, these narratives also center the real and unequal consequences for the lived experience of "pre-patients" and the health futures they imagine. In doing so, this talk expands on histories of medicine that have examined the rise of pre-disease diagnosis in the United States and Western Europe, foregrounding the violence of extreme inequalities reproduced through clinic-based, biomedical prevention strategies.

Guest:

Veronica Y. Womack, PhD

Associate Director, Inclusive Learning Communities
Searle Center for Advancing Learning & Teaching
Northwestern University

Mindfulness-based interventions can yield improved psychological and behavioral outcomes. However, if individuals do not feel like they can engage as their authentic selves, they may not reap the full benefits of such programs. This webinar will highlight culturally responsive considerations to mind-body interventions that may enhance one's sense of belonging and subsequently be more inclusive and effective.

Veronica Womack is an educational developer and is currently the Associate Director of Inclusive Learning Communities at Northwestern University's Searle Center for Advancing Learning & Teaching. Veronica earned her doctorate in Social Psychology from Howard University and completed an epidemiology postdoctoral fellowship at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine. She is also a mindfulness coach, offering consultations and facilitating mindfulness classes for community-based research programs. Veronica recently co-edited a book volume published by Routledge entitled, "Beyond White Mindfulness Critical Perspectives on Racism, Well-being and Liberation".

After the End of American Medical Ideology – Building a New Foundation for US Health

Guest:

Eric Reinhart, MD, PhD

Political Anthropologist, Psychoanalyst, and Resident Physician
Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences
Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine

In a recent essay, "Doctors Aren't Burned Out From Overwork. We're Demoralized by Our Health System," published in The New York Times, Dr. Reinhart attempted to reframe "burnout" among healthcare workers to explain how perverse financial motivations pervading the US health system undercut the ethical and pragmatic value of our labor—a process he argued is accelerating the collapse of American medical ideology. This talk will expand on that essay, developing the intertwined ideas of medical ideology, clinicism, accompaniment, and the paradoxes of prevention in order to move from diagnostic reflection to solutions-oriented action. He will propose that to achieve the changes that both patients and caregivers need will require a renewed ethics of care tied to a health systems revolution that reorganizes both US health policy around bottom-up, community-based care systems rather than reactive, top-down biomedical treatment paradigms.
