November-December 2019

NOVEMBER

NU China Care Playgroup/Mentorship Events

When: 11/14 & 11/21; Time TBD

Where: Online

Contact: Grace Liu, graceliu2023@u.northwestern.edu

China Care is an independent, student-run Northwestern service club dedicated to supporting and contributing to the lives of Chinese children in the Chicagoland area. However, all families interested in learning about Chinese culture are encouraged to partake in the events. China Care club members host playgroup events that consist of a variety of cultural activities (cooking lessons, arts-and-crafts, games) and educational lessons based on different aspects of Chinese culture, ranging from Chinese history to Asian foods. China Care families are also encouraged to apply for a college mentor for their child through the NU China Care Mentorship Program. Please visit the China Care website to learn more about the organization or email Grace to sign up for the China Care listserv—where you will receive regular newsletter updates of upcoming events.

Annual Intergenerational Storytelling Event

When: Thursday, 11/19, 5:00 PM – 6:30 PM

Where: Online (Free)

Contact: Nancy Cunniff, 847-467-2294, onebook@northwestern.edu

The shortest path between two people is a story. At this unique and fun event, you may simply be a listener, or you may offer a story of your own. This year's stories are based on the themes of justice, mercy, fairness, and equity, all of which are covered in Bryan Stevenson's inspiring memoir, "Just Mercy." This special interactive engagement between senior adults and young adults will be fun, non-intimidating, and something you'll be talking about for years to come. Come and share your story or listen to the stories of others. RSVP is required. Co-sponsored by the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute, The Northwestern Theatre Department, and Nine Lives, a storytelling podcast for the NU community.

Community Council for International Students (CCIS)

Where: The International Office, 630 Dartmouth Place, Evanston

Contact: Norman Axelrad, normaxe29@gmail.com, 847-673-6727

Sylvia Alvino, sylalvino@yahoo.com, 847-328-7516

CCIS is continuously looking for local volunteers who may be alums, neighbors, retired, or merely interested in meeting young people from other countries. CCIS has a series of personalized informal cultural immersion programs provided by local volunteers who meet with Northwestern University international graduate students, visiting scholars, post-doctoral fellows, and their families. We are also looking for a few good volunteers with business experience in areas including marketing, writing, photography, public relations, planning, and technology to support our ongoing activities. Apply at <https://tinyurl.com/ccisvolunteer>

The Alumnae of Northwestern University

The Alumnae offers intellectually stimulating, noncredit courses to the public at a modest cost. Each year more than 3,000 people enroll in these courses, taught virtually during COVID-19 by renowned University faculty.

For more information about upcoming courses, visit The Alumnae website www.nualumnae.org.

Purple Pantry

When: Thursdays, 11:00 AM to 2:00 PM

October 8th – November 19th

Where: Sheil Catholic Center, 2110 Sheridan Rd., Evanston

Students experiencing difficulty accessing food can drop by the Purple Pantry, the on-campus food pantry. Have class or work during that time? Individual appointments can also be arranged. The Purple Pantry is intended to be as barrier-free as possible, so it accommodates individuals with vegetarian, vegan, gluten-free, kosher, and halal dietary needs. Appointments for use of the pantry are required. For questions, to schedule an individual appointment, or to suggest produce to meet your dietary restriction, please email purplepantry@northwestern.edu.

Northwestern Music Academy Learn more online

For more than 70 years, Northwestern University's Music Academy in Evanston has provided music instruction to children and adult students from surrounding communities and the greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana area.

Most Academy instructors also teach in the Henry and Leigh Bienen School of Music and hold masters and doctoral degrees in music teaching and performance. The Academy often serves as a teaching laboratory for college students enrolled in pedagogy courses and is a member of the National Guild of Community Schools of the Arts.

Kindermusik (newborn to age 7)

Where: Online

Dates: Term starts Sept. 19 and ends Jan. 16

Cost: $300-355 (15-week class and home materials)

This 45-minute class is a lovely way for young children and parents to interact. Multi-level activities that are appropriate for each stage of a child's development give lap babies, crawlers, and walkers a chance to explore music, touch, sound, and movement. Home materials including a CD, a book related to the theme of the unit, and an instrument provide additional ideas for sharing the class experience at home.

Other Courses (offered virtually Fall Quarter)

Piano and Organ

The Music Academy Piano Division offers pre-piano class, which serves as an introduction to more formal piano instruction: keyboard instruction in two tracks for students ages 6 to 18, and instruction for adults. Pre-piano serves as an introduction to more formal piano instruction. Keyboard instruction for children begins with pre-staff music and expands to landmark-based intervallic reading. After the first year of study, most children participate in the Illinois State Music Teacher's Association curriculum assessment, where they demonstrate skills and receive certificates and pins for participation.

Strings

The String Division offers private lessons in violin, viola, and cello, with goals of both providing musical instruction and instilling a love of music and of learning music. The division believes that all children can learn to their potential when placed in an environment that includes clear instruction, an involved parent, and regular opportunities to listen to and perform.

Voice (Adults)

The Music Academy has canceled chorus rehearsals and voice classes for fall quarter and will reassess for winter 2021.

Business Workshops

Northwestern University Workshop for Small Business Leaders

Kellogg School of Management partners with JPMorgan Chase to offer Kellogg ASCEND Business Growth VI, a live virtual (online) management education program.

This partnership aligns management education, market access and capital access to grow businesses and jobs in low and moderate income (LMI) communities in Chicagoland, and develops a network that links business schools, market access organizations, Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFI) and Chase small business banking.

The program facilitates growth of businesses and is especially focused on the South and West sides of Chicago. Equally important, participants build community with Ascend partners and their cohort of entrepreneurs.

Develop and Innovate for Social Change (DISC) Partnership

When: Winter/Spring Quarter

Contact: Mason Lin, 858-357-6359, masonlin2022@u.northwestern.edu

DISC is a Northwestern student club that aims to employ technology as a means of making tangible progress for social good in the community. DISC is currently recognized as a club under McCormick and operates under our national organization CS+Social Good which brings together similar tech clubs for social change at universities across the country.

Every year, DISC operates 2 quarter long projects during winter and spring. Last year DISC partnered with The Evanston Development Cooperative, Community Currency, and the Levy Senior Center working on projects to enhance the platforms and technologies of these social impact-oriented organizations. If you have any interest getting involved as a project client, please contact Mason Lin over email.

One Book, One Northwestern

A full program of events has kicked off for our new One Book One Northwestern selection, Just Mercy. For more information about the One Book One Northwestern program, please contact Nancy Cunniff at onebook@northwestern.edu or 847-467-2294.

Just Mercy* by Bryan Stevenson Selected for One Book Program 2020-2021

This year's selection of Bryan Stevenson's Just Mercy challenges us to examine and confront the systemic racism, inequities, and moral failures of the United States criminal justice system. Perhaps now more than ever, Stevenson's voice needs to be heard. The recent deaths of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor, Tony McDade, and other Black Americans at the hands of police violence have ignited a global reckoning with America's pernicious investment in policing, criminalization, and incarceration. The failure to adequately address the COVID-19 crisis, especially as it devastated vulnerable communities, including prison populations, revealed the nation's prioritizing of some lives over others.

But Stevenson calls us forward to a better, fairer world—one that is more just in being more merciful. As a nation, we can divest from the systems that have led to this national crisis and invest in the values that will truly make our communities flourish, such as education, healthcare, and support services. As we read Just Mercy together this year, let's accept Stevenson's invitation to rethink what justice demands and, in so doing, to reimagine what is possible.

One Book One Northwestern is a community-wide reading program hosted by the Office of the President. It aims to engage the campus in a common conversation centered on a carefully chosen, thought-provoking book. It began in 2005 for students in the Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences and has since evolved into a community-wide program involving students, faculty and staff from all majors and departments.

Everyone is encouraged to read the One Book selection. The Office of the President sends a free copy to incoming first-year and transfer students the summer before they arrive on campus.

Andrew V. Papachristos, a Professor of Sociology and faculty Fellow at IPR, will discuss how we might leverage advances in network science to understand how police violence and misconduct spreads among and between officers in the Chicago Police Department. Using thousands of publicly available data provided by The Invisible Institute, Papachristos' research shows that patterns of police violence follow patterns similar to those of infectious disease—and understanding those patterns might allow cities to mitigate some of the harms associated with police misconduct as we, as a society, strive for mercy and justice.

Annual Intergenerational Storytelling Event

When: Thur, 11/19, 5:00 – 6:30 PM (Free)

Where: Online

Contact: Nancy Cunniff, 847-467-2294, onebook@northwestern.edu

The shortest path between two people is a story. At this unique and fun event, you may simply be a listener, or you may offer a story of your own. This year's stories are based on the themes of justice, mercy, fairness, and equity, all of which are covered in Bryan Stevenson's inspiring memoir, "Just Mercy." This special interactive engagement between senior adults and young adults will be fun, non-intimidating, and something you'll be talking about for years to come. Come and share your story or listen to the stories of others. RSVP is required. Co-sponsored by the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute, The Northwestern Theatre Department, and Nine Lives, a storytelling podcast for the NU community.

Mercy in the Museum: Online Collection Tours

A Class That Does (Not) Matter: Rethinking Cold War Latin America from the Middle

When: Monday, 11/30, 12:00 PM – 1:30 PM CT (Free)

Where: Online

Contact: Danny Postel, danny.postel@northwestern.edu

The last decade has seen the publication of important scholarship from different disciplines on the making of the middle classes across the world. In this presentation, historian Ricardo López-Pedrerros will seek to bring together this interdisciplinary production to initiate a critical conversation on how to rethink the historical formation of the middle classes—as a social category, a political project, a subjectivity, and a material reality—in Latin America during the second half of the 20th century.

The presentation will proceed in two ways. First, it will offer a transnational genealogy of the idea of the middle class in the Americas to explain why, despite the increasing number of scholars committed to the study of the middle classes, this class appears vestigial—that is, as a class that does not matter—in what is considered a “proper” analysis of power relationships. Second, by drawing on the case of Colombia in a transitional framework, it will demonstrate how the study of the historical formation of the middle classes during the Cold War opens up a multiplicity of questions to rethink major historical processes in Latin America: meanings of citizenship, the relationship between state and society, experiences of (counter) revolutionary change, the growth of affective labor, the naturalization of different forms of material inequality, and democracy as a methodology of domination.
