For One and All: Prints from The Block's Collection

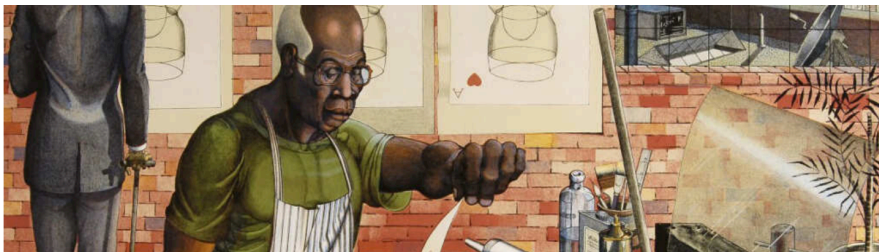

When: Mon, 3/1/21-4/11/21, All Day

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Lindsay Bosch, Lindsay.bosch@northwestern.edu

On the occasion of The Block's 40th anniversary, For One and All: Prints from The Block's Collection celebrates prints and printmaking by bringing together a diverse range of artwork from the permanent collection. The exhibition considers print production through various lenses layering complex histories of reproduction, circulation, collecting, and social activism.

For One and All places highlights from The Block's collection, many of which have not previously been on view, into conversation with one another. The exhibition includes examples of works that have been in the collection since the founding of the Block in 1980, along with recent acquisitions and gifts. From early modern European prints, to Depression-era and social activist prints, and those produced at print workshops throughout the United States, the exhibition surveys the depth and breadth of the Block's print collection and showcases the vital role that prints serve within the context of academic art museums.

Voices Across Time: Sharing Women's Experiences of Re-entry

When: Wednesday, 3/3/21, 6:00PM – 7:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Block Museum of Art, 847-491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu

"Voices Across Time: Sharing Women's Experiences of Re-entry" brings together organizers from Beyondmedia with current and former members of Grace House, a residential program for women exiting the Illinois prison system. This screening and discussion center women's experiences of re-entry, exploring the possibilities of art and storytelling in reclaiming citizenship.

Chicago Youth and Their Families During the COVID-19 Pandemic

When: Thursday, 3/4/21, 12:00PM – 1:00PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Institute for Public Health and Medicine (IPHAM), ipham@northwestern.edu

COVID-19 has had a profound impact on children, adolescents and families in Chicago. We will present data from our recently launched Voices of Child Health in Chicago Parent Panel Survey, regarding parents' concerns about COVID-19, their intentions to vaccinate themselves and their children against COVID-19, and the impact of the pandemic on their families. The Parent Panel Survey includes the perspectives of parents from all 77 community areas in the city, to ensure that community views are part of the citywide conversation about child and adolescent health.

Dialogue with Kamran Heidari, Director of the Documentary Film Dingomaro: Iran's Black South

When: Monday, 3/8/21, 12:00PM – 1:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Danny Postel, danny.postel@northwestern.edu

Hamid Said, a famous black musician in Iran, is travelling by motorbike across the province of Hormozgan to organise a concert with the best black musicians in the country. Besides Persians, Indians, Arabs and Europeans, Iran's "black south" has been influenced primarily by the descendants of slaves and merchants from Africa. Although Shiites, they still hold Voodoo ceremonies. Said must overcome numerous hurdles. One such hurdle is his wife, who is completely against his plan.

Since his Internet hit Bad Shans (hard luck), Hamid Said has become one of the most famous black musicians in Iran. He's travelling by motorbike across the province of Hormozgan, which is situated in the South of the country on the Persian Gulf, in order to realise his dream - he wants to organise a concert with the best black musicians in the country. Filmmaker Kamran Heidari accompanies Hamid Said as he attempts to make his dream come true.

Will Technology Save the Climate?

When: Tuesday, 3/9/21, 12:00PM – 1:00PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Dylan Peterson, 847-467-2770, buffettinstitute@northwestern.edu

Klaus Weber – Thomas G. Ayers Chair in Energy Resource Management at the Kellogg School of Management and Deputy Direct at the Buffett Institute for Global Affairs. This webinar is part of the Northwestern Buffett Institute for Global Affairs' Building Sustainable Futures: Global Challenges and Possibilities series, which focuses on a different United Nations Sustainable Development Goal (UN SDG) each quarter.

Women's History Month Annual Symposium: Mutual Aid and Community Engagement

When: Tuesday, 3/9/21, 1:00PM – 4:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Melisa Stephen, 847-491-7360, womenscenter@northwestern.edu

Join us for a day dedicated to Mutual Aid and Community Engagement. Sekile Nzinga will offer opening remarks on the history of mutual aid in Black communities. We will host a plenary conversation between Kelly Hayes and Dean Spade, and there will be panel of Northwestern students, staff, and faculty currently doing the work of advancing mutual aid and engaging our communities.

Global Lunchbox: An Interdisciplinary, Community-Based Approach to Understanding the Spread of COVID-19 (Thom McDade)

When: Wednesday, 3/10/21, 1:00PM – 2:00PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Rebecca Shereikis, 847-491-2598, r-shereikis@northwestern.edu

This week Thom McDade, Professor of Anthropology, Faculty Fellow of the Institute for Policy Research, and Director of the Laboratory for Human Biology Research at Northwestern, will discuss his interdisciplinary, community-based approach to understanding the spread of COVID-19.

Professor McDade is a biological anthropologist specializing in human population biology. His work is primarily concerned with the dynamic interrelationships among society, biology and health over the life course, with an emphasis on life course approaches to stress and the human immune system. The development and application of minimally invasive methods for integrating physiological measures into population-based research is also a major area of interest.

Tomas and the Library Lady, an Imagine U Production

When: Friday, 3/12/21-3/14/21, All Day (recurrent, weekend)

Where: Online

Cost: $20 one adult, one child

Contact: Wirtz Center, 847-491-7282,

wirtz@northwestern.edu

Tomás and The Library Lady tells the true story of a nine-year-old Tomás Rivera, the son of Mexican migrant workers who move from Texas to Iowa to work in corn fields in the summer of 1945. Tomás finds the library, where he bonds with the librarian. Adapted for the stage by José Cruz Gonzáles from the children's book of the same title, written by El Paso born and UTEP graduate Pat Mora, Tomás takes his education into his own hands and develops a lifetime love of reading and writing

The Profits of Distrust: Confidence in American institutions and the rise of bottled water

When: Wednesday, 3/31/21, 12:00PM – 1:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Gina Stec, 847-467-2359, gina.stec@northwestern.edu

Dr. Manny Teodoro from the University of Wisconsin-Madison will explore the linkage between the rise in bottled water and plummeting trust in American government.

NU China Care Playgroup/Mentorship Events

When: Saturdays (Date TBD)

Where: Online

Contact: Grace Liu, graceliu2023@u.northwestern.edu

China Care is an independent, student-run Northwestern service club dedicated to supporting and contributing to the lives of Chinese children in the Chicagoland area. However, all families interested in learning about Chinese culture are encouraged to partake in the events. China Care club members host playgroups events that consist of a variety of cultural activities (cooking lessons, arts-and-crafts, games) and educational lessons based on different aspects of Chinese culture, ranging from Chinese history to Asian foods. China Care families are also encouraged to apply for a college mentor for their child through the NU China Care Mentorship Program. Please visit the China Care website to learn more about the organization or email Grace to sign up for the China Care listserv—where you will receive regular newsletter updates of upcoming events.

Voices Across Time: Sharing Women's Experiences of Re-entry

When: Wednesday, 3/3/21, 6:00PM – 7:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Block Museum of Art, 847-491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu

"Voices Across Time: Sharing Women's Experiences of Re-entry" brings together organizers from Beyondmedia with current and former members of Grace House, a residential program for women exiting the Illinois prison system. This screening and discussion center women's experiences of re-entry, exploring the possibilities of art and storytelling in reclaiming citizenship.

In the early 2000s, activist media organizations Beyondmedia and Visible Voices offered critical, collaborative media-making workshops to formerly incarcerated women at Grace House as part of the re-entry process. These pedagogical encounters, spearheaded by artist Salome Chasnoff and activist Joanne Archibald, created space for women to challenge mainstream media's representations while learning to use the tools of video production. In videos like What We Leave Behind (2001, 21 min), the women of Grace House told their own stories on both sides of the camera; this screening and conversation asks what these initiatives mean today.

Arrivance and the Anti-Poetics of Diaspora: Alonso de Sandoval as testimonianante for the Christian West—Jerome Branche

When: Tuesday, 3/9/21, 12:30PM – 2:00PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Danny Postel, danny.postel@northwestern.edu

Of the chroniclers who narrated the arrival and military and civilizational triumph of Spain and its American empire, few, if any, addressed the captive Africans in any sustained manner, these latter being presumably beneath their writerly dignity, and made invisible on account of their status in slavery. The Jesuit Alonso de Sandoval's De instauranda Aethiopum salute (1627) is unique in this regard, particularly considering the resonant contemporary political and theological debates concerning the subjectivity of the Amerindians or native Americans (i.e. whether they were human, whether they could legally be enslaved, considered vassals of the crown, should be given special consideration for evangelization, and so on).

Art Talks! Docents in Dialogue

When: Friday, 3/12/21, 12:00PM – 12:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Block Museum of Art, 847-491-4000, block-museum@northwestern.edu

How do artworks talk to us... and to one another? And how can we learn to talk back? Join Northwestern undergraduates in The Block Museum Student Docent Program to consider these questions in a unique lunchtime series. Through half-hour discussion-based presentations, Northwestern docents from interdisciplinary fields of study will consider two works from the museum collection that have something to say to one another (and to us.) This season, the team will share artworks in our current exhibition For One and All: Prints from The Block's Collection, and our upcoming Fall 2021 exhibition, Who Says, Who Shows, What Counts.

Theatre

Critical Studies in Theatre and Performance Cluster: Ladonna Forsgren w/ Dassia Posner

Jewish and Israeli Cuisine and Culture: A Conversation with Michael Solomonov and Steven Cook

When: Thursday, 3/4/21, 7:00PM – 8:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Nancy Gelman, 847-491-2612, jewish-studies@northwestern.edu

Michael Solomonov and Steven Cook are the co-owners of the nationally beloved, trailblazing Philadelphia hospitality group CookNSolo, and champions of Israel's extraordinarily diverse and vibrant culinary landscape. Together, they have been awarded three James Beard Foundation Awards, with Mike awarded two additional Beard Awards for his work as Chef of Zahav, which includes "Outstanding Chef", 2017. Zahav, their restaurant that put the rich melting pot of Israeli cuisine at the forefront of dining in America today, became in 2019 the first Israeli and first Philadelphia restaurant to win the James Beard "Outstanding Restaurant" Award. In 2018, Zahav was recognized by Food & Wine Magazine as one of "The 40 Most Important Restaurants of the Past 40 Years". Their seven other restaurants include the Israeli-style hummusiya Dizengoff, the kosher falafel shop Goldie, the Israeli bakery K'Far, the Israeli sandwich shop Merkaz, and Abe Fisher, which serves contemporary takes on old-world Ashkenazi Jewish cooking. Their most recent restaurant Laser Wolf, an Israeli skewer house (shipudiyah), opened last year, and was named a GQ Magazine "Best New Restaurant in America", 2020. The duo has also co-authored three highly acclaimed cookbooks – Zahav: A World of Israeli Cooking, Federal Donuts: The (Partially) True Spectacular Story, and Israeli Soul: Easy, Essential, Delicious.

Distinguished Lecturer in Multilingualism and Language Learning: Lourdes Ortega

When: Friday, 3/12/21, 3:00PM – 5:00PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Irene Sakk, 847-491-7020, j-sakk@northwestern.edu

Dr. Ortega's main area of research is in second language acquisition, particularly socio-cognitive and educational dimensions in adult classroom settings. She has also long-standing interests in second language writing and foreign language education and has published widely about systematic research synthesis and epistemological and ethical dimensions of second language acquisition research. In the last few years she has become interested in applying insights from bilingualism, usage-based linguistics, and social justice to the investigation of second language development.

Global and Civic Engagement

Arrivance and the Anti-Poetics of Diaspora: Alonso de Sandoval as testimoniente for the Christian West—Jerome Branche

When: Tuesday, 3/9/21, 12:30PM – 2:00PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Danny Postel, danny.postel@northwestern.edu

Of the chroniclers who narrated the arrival and military and civilizational triumph of Spain and its American empire, few, if any, addressed the captive Africans in any sustained manner, these latter being presumably beneath their writerly dignity, and made invisible on account of their status in slavery. The Jesuit Alonso de Sandoval's De instauranda Aethiopia salute (1627) is unique in this regard, particularly considering the resonant contemporary political and theological debates concerning the subjectivity of the Amerindians or native Americans (i.e. whether they were human, whether they could legally be enslaved, considered vassals of the crown, should be given special consideration for evangelization, and so on).

In De instauranda, a wide-ranging work whose primary objective is to provide a manual for conversion following the Jesuit mandate for universal evangelization, we see detailed attention to arriving and recently arrived Black African bodies and to continental African culture that offers an early ethnographic account that attends to various aspects of their (racialized) difference, in such a way that even as Sandoval's empathy for their suffering in slavery is made clear, as is their belonging to a same larger human community, his inability to transcend the presumption of superiority attendant to evangelization as a founding principle of empire, is inescapable.

The resultant instances of cognitive dissonance in his manual, that would propagandize saving Black souls even as Black bodies are sacrificed on the altar of colonial profit and servitude, provide telling insights as to the pitfalls of putative (transracial) allyship and solidarity, that are as instructive for his time as they are for ours. Kamau Brathwaite's insight regarding the subjectivity and importance of Middle Passage arrivants, a topic that has received scant attention — whether from historians, diaspora scholars, or from Latin Americanists — provides a fruitful point of departure for a re-consideration of Sandoval (as White savior), within the wider framework of coloniality.

Black Literary Islam in the Caribbean (Aliyah Khan)

When: Wednesday, 3/10/21, 1:00PM – 2:00PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Rebecca Shereikis, 847-491-2598, r-shereikis@northwestern.edu

Islam in the Caribbean is often considered to be a religion of subcontinental Indian indentured laborers, but there is a significant regional history of African and Black Muslim cultural production and activity: from enslaved West Africans writing Arabic and qjami autobiographies in 19th century Jamaica, to the Black Nationalist Jamaat al Muslimeen attempted government coup in Trinidad in 1990, to the poetry of the Afro-Guyanese poet Abdur-Rahman Slade Hopkinson (1934-1993). In this talk I discuss the Islamic writings of two West African men enslaved in Jamaica in the early 1800s, Muhammad Kaba Saghanugbu of Côte d'Ivoire and Abu Bakr al-Siddiq of Timbuktu; and the Sufi-influenced religious poetry of Hopkinson in 20th century Guyana. I argue that their Afro-Caribbean Muslim literary works are linked across a century and a half by a concern with Sufi Muslim ideas of the "hidden" (batin) and other political-religious principles of West African Islam, pointing to the originary and continuing importance of African Sufi Islam in the Caribbean and the Americas. I also note historical cross-racial and interreligious connections between Indian Muslims and people of African descent during the colonial Shi'a Muslim Tadjah/Hosay festival in British Guiana and Trinidad, in the 1838-1917 period of indentureship following the abolition of slavery in the British West Indies.

Global Lunchbox: An Interdisciplinary, Community-Based Approach to Understanding the Spread of COVID-19 (Thom McDade)

When: Wednesday, 3/10/21, 1:00PM – 2:00PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Rebecca Shereikis, 847-491-2598, r-shereikis@northwestern.edu

This week Thom McDade, Professor of Anthropology, Faculty Fellow of the Institute for Policy Research, and Director of the Laboratory for Human Biology Research at Northwestern, will discuss his interdisciplinary, community-based approach to understanding the spread of COVID-19.

Professor McDade is a biological anthropologist specializing in human population biology. His work is primarily concerned with the dynamic interrelationships among society, biology and health over the life course, with an emphasis on life course approaches to stress and the human immune system. The development and application of minimally invasive methods for integrating physiological measures into population-based research is also a major area of interest.

Visiting Speaker Dr. Baki Tezcan – The emasculated guardian of power: Black eunuchs and the interplay between gender and race at the Ottoman imperial court

When: Friday, 3/12/21, 12:00PM – 1:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Gina Stec, 847-467-2359, gina.stec@northwestern.edu

In the light of four books that were either written with a view to secure the patronage of the Chief Black Eunuch of the Ottoman court, or to critique him, between the early seventeenth and mid-eighteenth centuries, Dr. Tezcan will discuss Ottoman literary representations of Africans and how these representations intersect with the heavily gendered environment of the court.

Baki Tezcan teaches history at the University of California, Davis, and is the author of The Second Ottoman Empire: Political and Social Transformation in the Early Modern World, and about forty articles on Islam, modern Turkish historiography, and Ottoman history and historiography.

Reckoning with the Syrian Uprising a Decade On – A Forum with Lisa Wedeen & Yasser Munif

When: Monday, 3/15/21, 6:00PM – 7:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Danny Postel, danny.postel@northwestern.edu

The Syrian uprising began in March of 2011. The peaceful, grassroots protests that broke out across the country that spring were met with ferocious repression, which in turn led to the militarization of the conflict and a staggering level of violence: hospitals and apartment buildings bombed, entire cities reduced to rubble, industrial-scale torture and murder of detainees, mass starvation, and unimaginable trauma.

Nearly half a million Syrians have been killed and more than 12 million have fled the country or been internally displaced — the biggest internally displaced population in the world. “Syria has become the great tragedy of this century — a disgraceful humanitarian calamity with suffering and displacement unparalleled in recent history,” United Nations Secretary-General António Guterres solemnly remarked.

How can we make sense of this colossal tragedy a decade on? What lessons can be drawn from the Syrian uprising and the ghastly fate it met? Join Northwestern's Center for International and Area Studies and the Evanston Public Library for this discussion with Lisa Wedeen and Yasser Munif, the authors of two recent books that grapple with these and related questions.

Visiting Speaker Dr. Ezgi Guner: Scramble for African Hearts: Muslim Whiteness, Islamic Civility, and Interracial Intimacy in AKP's Turkey

When: Wednesday, 3/31/21, 12:00PM – 1:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Gina Stec, 847-467-2359, gina.stec@northwestern.edu

Drawing on a multi-sited ethnography in Turkey, Tanzania, Senegal, Gambia, and Benin, Dr. Guner shows how whiteness, historically associated with Western modernity and state secularism in Turkey, is redefined as the marker of Islamic civility in and through these transnational relations. Analysis of the construction of Muslim whiteness contributes to debates on intersectionality of race and religion in the context of the Middle East, Africa, and their transnational connections.

The Profits of Distrust: Confidence in American institutions and the rise of bottled water

When: Wednesday, 3/31/21, 12:00PM – 1:30PM CST

Where: Online, Free

Contact: Gina Stec, 847-467-2359, gina.stec@northwestern.edu

Dr. Manny Teodoro from the University of Wisconsin-Madison will explore the linkage between the rise in bottled water and plummeting trust in American government.

Around Campus

NU China Care Playgroup/Mentorship Events

When: Saturdays (Date TBD)

Where: Online

Contact: Grace Liu, graceliu2023@u.northwestern.edu

China Care is an independent, student-run Northwestern service club dedicated to supporting and contributing to the lives of Chinese children in the Chicagoland area. However, all families interested in learning about Chinese culture are encouraged to partake in the events. China Care club members host playgroups events that consist of a variety of cultural activities (cooking lessons, arts-and-crafts, games) and educational lessons based on different aspects of Chinese culture, ranging from Chinese history to Asian foods. China Care families are also encouraged to apply for a college mentor for their child through the NU China Care Mentorship Program. Please visit the China Care website to learn more about the organization or email Grace to sign up for the China Care listserv—where you will receive regular newsletter updates of upcoming events.

Community Council for International Students (CCIS)

Where: The International Office, 630 Dartmouth Place, Evanston

Contact: Norman Axelrad, normaxe29@gmail.com, 847-673-6727

Sylvia Alvino, sylalvino@yahoo.com, 847-328-7516

CCIS is continuously looking for local volunteers who may be alums, neighbors, retired, or merely interested in meeting young people from other countries. CCIS has a series of personalized informal cultural immersion programs provided by local volunteers who meet with Northwestern University international graduate students, visiting scholars, post-doctoral fellows, and their families. We are also looking for a few good volunteers with business experience in areas including marketing, writing, photography, public relations, planning, and technology to support our ongoing activities. Apply at <https://tinyurl.com/ccisvolunteer>

The Alumnae of Northwestern University

The Alumnae offers intellectually stimulating, noncredit courses to the public at a modest cost. Each year more than 3,000 people enroll in these courses, taught virtually during COVID-19 by renowned University faculty.

For more information about upcoming courses, visit The Alumnae website www.nualumnae.org.

Purple Pantry

When: Thursdays (weekly), 11:00 AM to 2:00 PM (Central)

Where: Sheil Catholic Center, 2110 Sheridan Rd., Evanston

Individuals experiencing difficulty accessing food can schedule individual appointments for use of the pantry both during and outside the designated time. The Purple Pantry is intended to be as barrier-free as possible, so it accommodates individuals with vegetarian, vegan, gluten-free, kosher, and halal dietary needs. Appointments for use of the pantry are required. For questions, to schedule an individual appointment, or to suggest produce to meet your dietary restriction, please email purplepantry@northwestern.edu.

Northwestern Music Academy

Learn more online

For more than 70 years, Northwestern University's Music Academy in Evanston has provided music instruction to children and adult students from surrounding communities and the greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana area.

Most Academy instructors also teach in the Henry and Leigh Bienen School of Music and hold masters and doctoral degrees in music teaching and performance. The Academy often serves as a teaching laboratory for college students enrolled in pedagogy courses and is a member of the National Guild of Community Schools of the Arts.

Kindermusik (newborn to age 7)

Where: Online

Dates: Term starts Jan. 30 and ends Mar. 15

Cost: $300-355 (15-week class and home materials)

This 45-minute class is a lovely way for young children and parents to interact. Multi-level activities that are appropriate for each stage of a child's development give lap babies, crawlers, and walkers a chance to explore music, touch, sound, and movement. Home materials including a CD, a book related to the theme of the unit, and an instrument provide additional ideas for sharing the class experience at home.

Other Courses

(offered virtually Winter Quarter)

Piano and Organ

The Music Academy Piano Division offers pre-piano class, which serves as an introduction to more formal piano instruction: keyboard instruction in two tracks for students ages 6 to 18, and instruction for adults. Pre-piano serves as an introduction to more formal piano instruction. Keyboard instruction for children begins with pre-staff music and expands to landmark-based intervallic reading. After the first year of study, most children participate in the Illinois State Music Teacher's Association curriculum assessment, where they demonstrate skills and receive certificates and pins for participation.

Strings

The String Division offers private lessons in violin, viola, and cello, with goals of both providing musical instruction and instilling a love of music and of learning music. The division believes that all children can learn to their potential when placed in an environment that includes clear instruction, an involved parent, and regular opportunities to listen to and perform.

Voice (Adults)

The Music Academy has canceled chorus rehearsals and voice classes for winter quarter and will reassess for spring 2021.
