

Northwestern
OFFICE OF FELLOWSHIPS

Fellowship Winners 2018-19

Welcome to Northwestern University's Office of Fellowships!

You may wonder, "What's a fellowship?" A fellowship can be

- a grant for a creative or research project
- a scholarship for an academic qualification
- an internship for professional development

What makes a grant, scholarship, or internship a fellowship is the cohort of people chosen to develop their talents together with guidance from mentors, through group activities, and in support of a larger goal.

This booklet lists the hundreds of Northwestern students and alumni who secured external funding during the 2018–19 academic year to create, research, study, and intern through fellowships all over the country and around the globe. The fellowships are listed in four categories:

- those requiring students to apply first to Northwestern for endorsement before filing applications to national competitions
- those offering international experiences by taking recipients outside the United States
- those taking recipients off campus to destinations within the United States
- those funding student activities on campus

We want you to join these fellowship winners and help us paint the world purple, one Wildcat at a time!

Elizabeth Lewis Pardoe, PhD
Director

*Year in parentheses after school name indicates date of receiving degree.
Abbreviated year after winner's name indicates current undergraduate class year.*

A sampling of this year's undergraduate winners

Giovanni Gamalong, a senior in the Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences, won a Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarship to support a summer study abroad term at the Universidad Panamericana in Mexico City. A double major in chemistry and global health studies, Gamalong studied public health abroad while taking classes on Spanish literature and the history of Mexico.

English and French double major Laura Gomez left her mark on Northwestern as a researcher and tutor—as a Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellow and through her work at the Writing Place. With the support of an Erasmus Mundus Scholarship, Gomez begins a master's degree in comparative literature, specializing in French and Italian, this fall at the University of Strasbourg and continuing at the University of Bologna.

Elissa Gray, a journalism and political science double major, was awarded a Truman Scholarship for her record of leadership and public service. On campus, Gray is coeditor of the online magazine Her Campus and president of Alpha Phi Omega, a coeducational service fraternity. She plans to dedicate her career to the intersection of sexual-assault-survivor advocacy and the criminal justice system's shortcomings.

A double major in electrical engineering and applied mathematics in the McCormick School of Engineering, Robert Gray is one of several Northwestern alumni and graduate students to receive funding for further education through the National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship Program. Gray is pursuing a PhD at the California Institute of Technology.

When Jamilah Silver wasn't leading cheers for Northwestern's student athletes, you could find her conducting research in a psychology lab. After winning funding and awards for her undergraduate research, Silver is taking the next step in her academic career by pursuing a PhD in clinical psychology at New York's Stony Brook University, supported by the National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship Program.

As a double major in philosophy and neuroscience, Daniel Wu pursued an interdisciplinary path at Northwestern. Equally dedicated to service, Wu volunteered at Lurie Children's Hospital, counseled at Camp Kesem, and participated in the Brady Scholars Program in Ethics and Civic Life. Now he takes his commitment to service to Malaysia as an English teaching assistant through the Fulbright US Student Program.

Junior Tara Wu had already studied Mandarin for seven years before continuing to enhance her fluency this past summer through a Critical Language Scholarship for study in Xi'an, China. By mastering the language and deepening her understanding of Chinese culture, Wu aims to offer nuanced and accurate depictions of China during her future career as an American journalist.

A sampling of this year's graduate student winners

Musicology PhD student Olivia Cacchione received a Council on Library and Information Resources Mellon Fellowship for Dissertation Research in Original Sources to support her study of music's role in 19th- and early-20th-century spiritualist séances and its relation to 20th-century mediated sound production. During her fellowship year she is accessing archival materials in Canada and the United Kingdom.

Philip Curtis, a PhD student in communication sciences and disorders, works in the Early Intervention Research Group while pursuing clinical certification in speech pathology. As a winner of a National Institutes of Health Ruth L. Kirschstein Individual Predoctoral NRSA (F31) grant, he is exploring how children's language abilities relate to their behavior.

Vice president of Northwestern's Graduate Society of Women Engineers chapter, Julia Downing has been named a GEM Full Fellow and a recipient of a National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship in support of her PhD research in materials science and engineering. Her dissertation focuses on scalable manufacturing of 2-D nanomaterials to enable formulation of nanomaterial inks.

Born in Beijing, Jenny Liu immigrated to the United States at age seven. Now Liu is a recipient of the ARCS Scholars award and the Paul & Daisy Soros Fellowship for New Americans, which support her study as an MD/PhD candidate in the Feinberg School of Medicine's medical scientist training program. Her research concerns the use of data-based tools to understand how proteins are controlled.

Paul Ohno just completed his PhD in chemistry and was named to the second-ever cohort of Schmidt Science Fellows, an initiative designed to support recent doctoral graduates who will undertake a significant disciplinary pivot from the topic of their dissertation research. For his next major project, Ohno will work with lasers to determine climate-relevant properties of suspended atmospheric aerosol particles.

Jayson Porter, a PhD student in history, researches Mexican environmental history with a focus on chemical eradication campaigns—against plants and people. This year, the Fulbright US Student Program is funding his field research in Mexico City for his dissertation, which analyzes pesticide use across military, public health, and agricultural campaigns from 1920 to 1980.

Religious studies doctoral student Miranda Smith is combining her theological training with her background in creative writing through a grant from the Fulbright US Student Program to conduct dissertation research this year in Xining, China. Smith's research focuses on modern Tibetan poets, examining how they sustain, depart from, and reinvent Tibetan literary tradition.
