

Disposition codes serve two purposes – to define the stages of the application review process, and to allow search committees to define the reason that a candidate was rejected from consideration (or withdrew themselves from consideration). These purposes will be outlined below.

In the Applications section of FRS, use the Disposition dropdown menu to move candidates through the Job Seeker, Reviewed, Interview, and Offer stages of application review.

Candidates can be rejected from consideration at any stage of this process. They might also contact the search administrator to withdraw their application, or may refuse an offer. See next page for instructions on using the "Not Selected" and "Refused Offer/Withdrawn App" disposition codes.

Applications – Guide to using Disposition Codes, cont’d.

If a candidate is rejected from consideration at any stage of the application review process, select “Not Selected” from the Disposition code dropdown menu. If a candidate requests to withdraw from consideration, select “Refused Offer/Withdrawn App”. A Disposition Code Reason box will open; select the reason for rejection (or withdrawal) from the dropdown menu. Descriptions of each rejection/withdrawn reason, and guidance on proper usage, appear below.
